

London Colonials and Student Rugby League Old Boys represent the old and new faces of the amateur game in the capital. Colonials were founded in the seventies and presently play at Burntwood Lane, Wandsworth. As their name implies they draw their players mainly from the Antipodes! (what's new?). They have been successful throughout their existence and are previous winners of both the London League and Cup achieving the double in 1983-4.

In contrast the ex-students side only joined the London League this season and are currently unbeaten. Pre-season success saw them winning the Hemel Ten a Side competition. They play out of Hackney Rugby Union club, Spring Hill, Upper Clapton E4 and are open to non ex-students as well as recruiting players as they leave college.

The squads named here are those that won their semi-finals last Sunday (Bonfire Night).
